U. S. AGREES TO NEGOTIATE DIRECT WITH CARRANZA

Formal Acceptance of Method Proposed by Him for Settlement of Differences Handed to His Washington Representative.

Note Expresses Satisfaction at Suggestion of "Quick and Practical" Solution of Border Problem.

Outcome Thought to Depend on How Far First Chief's Suspicions of American Motives Have Receded.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—A note formally accepting Gen. Carranza's proposal that differences between the United States and the de facto Government of Mexico be settled by direct negotiation was handed today to Eliseo Arredondo, the Mexican Ambassador designate.

Secretary Lansing took a draft of the note to today's Cabinet meeting, and had it delivered promptly after the Cabinet adjourned. The course to be pursued already had been agreed upon by President Wilson and his advisers.

The text of the note addressed to Mr. Arredondo follows:

Sir—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of July 4, 1916, in which you transcribe a note addressed to me by the Secretary of Foreign Relations of your Government and to request to you that you will transmit to him the following reply:

"I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your courteous note transmitted to me by Senor Arredondo on the fourth instant, in which you refer to my notes of June 20th and June 25th, and to assure you of the sincere gratification of my Government at the frank statement of the difficulties which have unfortunately arisen in our relations along the international boundary, and the unreserved expression of the desire of your Government to reach an adjustment of these difficulties on a broad and amicable basis. The same spirit of friendship and of solicitude for the continuance of cordial relations between our two countries inspires my Government, which equally desires an immediate solution of the matters of difference which have long vexed both governments."

"It is especially pleasing to my Government that the de facto Government of Mexico is disposed to give quiet as well as practical consideration in a spirit of concord to the remedies which may be applied to the existing conditions. Reproaching the same desire the Government of the United States is prepared immediately to exchange views as to a practical plan to remove finally and prevent a recurrence of the difficulties which have been the source of the controversy."

"Accept, Mr. Secretary, the renewed assurance of my highest consideration."

"I am, sir, yours very sincerely,

"ROBERT LANSING."

Plans for Discussions.

The proposed exchange of views formal will be carried on through informal conversations between Mr. Arredondo and Counsellor Polk, who will act as Secretary of State during the next month. Secretary Lansing leaves today to spend his vacation at Watertown, N. Y. He will keep in close touch with the department.

While high officials have admitted that the Washington Government in all probability would do what it could to encourage American bankers to go to the aid of the de facto Government if Carranza would furnish proper guarantees, Counsellor Polk took occasion today to state that his conference yesterday with Henry T. Fletcher, Ambassador-designate to Mexico, and Paul H. Warburg of the Federal Reserve Board, had nothing to do with this aspect of the situation.

Department officials made it plain that it was as yet too early to forecast clearly what might be evolved from the more favorable aspects of the Mexican situation presented by Gen. Carranza's recent amicable note. Everything depends, it was pointed out, upon the degree to which suspicions previously entertained by the First Chief as to the motives of the United States have been overcome.

No detailed plan as to the form of guarantees the Mexican States may seek for the safety of its own and other foreign interests in Mexico has been formulated. It can be stated authoritatively, however, that the loyalty as Mexican civil as well as military officials to the central government must be insured in some way.

Warning Against Villa Band.

On instructions from Gen. Carranza the Mexican Embassy today advised the State Department of the virtual destruction of a de facto Government force Wednesday by a large Villa band at Carrizal, Chihuahua, and suggested that the American border patrol exert

CARGO IN PORT 22 MONTHS INCREASES IN VALUE $875,000

Nitrate Was on Way From Chile to France on German Sailing Ship

When War Began.

NEW YORK, July 7.—The German sailing ship Indra began to discharge here today a cargo of nitrate from Chile valued at $1,000,000. She arrived with the cargo in September, 1914. It was worth only $125,000 then, but the demand for the chemical for the manufacture of explosives has greatly increased its price since then. The result is that while lying in this port for nearly two years the value of the cargo has increased by $875,000.

The Indra was bound from a Chilean port to Dunkirk, France, when the European War began. The captain headed for New York on learning that war was declared. Consignees of the cargo began litigation to compel him to carry it to Dunkirk, but he declined to take his ship to sea where she might be captured by British or French warships.

U. S. ARMY REJECTS DESERTERS

Americans Who Fled Canadian Forces Fail to Enlist at Home.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 7.—Despite the fact scores of Americans are deserting from the Canadian army to cross the border and enlist with the United States forces, regular army recruiting officers at Niagara Falls, where most of the men come into the country, are refusing to sign up the deserters. They await orders from Washington, the officers say.

Eighty-five men of the Ninety-eighth Lincoln and Welland Battalion, which left Niagara Falls, Ontario, yesterday to embark for overseas, deserted before the battle left Niagara camp. All were Americans.

Serg. John Maynard of a machine gun section, training at Toronto, was picked up by immigration officials at Niagara Falls yesterday, but released when he proved his citizenship. According to Maynard, news of the Mexican trouble is kept as much as possible from Americans in the Canadian army.

ONE JOB WOMAN CAN'T FILL

LONDON, July 7.—B. L. Phillips, an American of Southwark street, who claims to be the greatest rat catcher in the world, has applied to the military tribunal for the exemption of seven men because he has only been able to find one woman willing to be a rat catcher. Four men were granted a three month's extension.

Three hundred of Phillips' rat catchers are said to have joined the army last year.

22 MORE DEATHS FROM PARALYSIS, 19 IN BROOKLYN

87 New Cases Reported in Epidemic Unabated in Greater New York.

GOVERNMENT HELPS

Public Health Service Details Doctors for Experimental Work to Check Disease.

NEW YORK, July 7.—With city, state and Federal authorities fighting the disease, the epidemic of infantile paralysis showed little signs of abatement today. During the 24 hours ending at 10 o'clock this morning, 22 more children died. Nineteen of this number succumbed in Brooklyn. There were 87 new cases reported.

A 24-hour report for yesterday showed 123 new cases, 50 of which were in Brooklyn, five in Manhattan, five in Queens and 33 in Richmond. This was the worst day yet recorded. The deaths for 24 hours numbered 24, of which 21 were in Brooklyn, two in Manhattan and one in Ridgewood, Queens. Reports from country districts indicate that the disease is gaining a foothold in many of them. Several cases developed up-State and there were new cases at Amityville, Copague, Oyster Bay and Lakeville, on Long Island. There are 11 cases in Essex County, N. J.

So many patients are being placed in the contagious disease hospitals that there is a shortage of physicians to attend to them. Health Commissioners Emerson sent out a call for additional doctors, who are asked to enlist as internes for two months in the city's service.

Children Rushed to Country.

Parents continue to rush their children to the country. The Ontario & Western Railroad, which leads into the Catskills, reported that never before had the demand for half-fare tickets been so great.

The arrangements for bringing the United States Public Health Service into the fight were perfected at a conference in the city hall among Mayor Mitchell, Health Commissioner Emerson and Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo, whose department governs the Public Health Service.

Secretary McAdoo informed the New York officials that he considered this problem a national one and offered to place at the city's disposal as many men as are needed.

The Mayor accepted the offer and immediately afterward Commissioner Emerson telegraphed to the acting Surgeon General at Washington, asking him to send six men trained in epidemiology to help those who are working in New York in an effort to discover how carriers of the fatal malady may be identified, so that they may be quarantined and prevented from doing further damage.

This knowledge is regarded as a vital point in the fight.

It is probable the Public Health Service will take complete charge of all the cases which arise on Staten Island and set aside a pavilion in the quarantine station for the care of Richmond County patients. These are now being brought to Manhattan and cared for at the Willard Parker Hospital.

In proportion to its population, the epidemic is spreading faster on Staten Island than in any other borough.

Yesterday's report included eight cases in Rosebank, four in West Brighton, four in Port Richmond, three in

"Find the Enemy's Weak Point and Strike There," Maxim of Gen. Foch, Leader of French Drive

GEN. FOCH IS AT THE READER'S LEFT.

GEN. FERDINAND FOCH, commander of the French troops now taking part in the allies' big drive, was known before the war as an ardent Royalist. For years he was the director of Ecole de Guerre, or war school. When he took command of his forces at the front all of the corps commanders under him had been his pupils at the war school, where their relation to him had been those of student to a professor. "Find out the enemy's weak point and deliver your blow there," is one of Gen. Foch's favorite maxims. A young artillery officer who heard him deliver it at a banquet in 1913 exclaimed: "But, General, suppose the enemy has no weak spot?" "Then, make one," replied the General, aggressively. Gen. Foch was in the battle of the Marne and directed much of the fighting around Ypres.

Because of his directorship of the Ecole de Guerre he was known to many army officers, but the general public knew little of him. In military circles at home and abroad he had a reputation as a writer of war books. Two of his works, "The Principles of War" and "Conduct of War," have been translated into German and Italian.

Foch was appointed director of the Ecole de Guerre after he had risen to the rank of Brigadier-General. This same sector a surprise attack by our aerial activity of July 5 when one of our air squadrons threw down with success a bomb from the railroad junction at Hem, to the west of Charleville. On the return trip from this point there were a number of engagements with German machines in which our aeroplanes took part. Two German machines were brought down, one near Mesieres, and the other in the region of Leffincourt.

The first German counter-attack against the French was launched in the night in the Hem section north of the canalized Somme River. The Germans succeeded in carrying two small woods situated south of the Clercy-Merjourt road, a few hundred yards from the sugar works bordering that road.

The French troops there, being more or less in the air, fell back on the village and swinging their left wing slightly captured another small wood at the northeastern end of the village, close to the Ham brick field and along the edge of the road from Clercy to Ham and Curly. This was the "only change in the situation throughout the 24 hours during which the counter offensive lasted."

Attacks on Both Sides.

The statement issued last night by the French War Office said:

"On both sides of the Somme the enemy endeavored today to recapture the two ends of the line held by the French."

"North of the Somme a series of counter attacks, directed against our new lines north of the village of Hem, were successfully shattered by our artillery without the enemy being able to obtain the least success. We took some prisoners."

"South of the river counter attacks, launched from Berny-En-Strées and Belloy, were stopped by our fire, and the enemy was unable to debouch from his trenches. In this region the Germans suffered great losses. Two companies, caught in a trench northwest of Berny by the enflading fire of our mitrailleuses, were annihilated."

The British official statement of last night said:

"As a result of violent bomb fighting, we made further progress at certain points in the main battle area. Low clouds interfered with aeroplanes work, but in the Hapage area one of our machines, dropping to 200 feet, successfully bombed a train from which German reinforcements were alighting."

No Obstacle Before Peronne.

The French remain two and a half miles from Peronne on the south side of the Somme and four miles from that city on the north side of the river and there are no formidable natural obstacles in the way of their occupation of the city when the French command judges the time is ripe to do so."

The left of the French advance rests on Hardecourt and the right on Estrées, while the entire intervening front has been transformed within the last four days from one of irregular lines, that exposed some positions to a flanking fire, into a homogeneous line without fissures or dangerous wedges.

The solidity of this front is in marked contrast with the front in the battles of the Champagne and the Artois, the irregularity of which permitted of a heavy cross-fire being brought to bear upon the more advanced points. This part of the present front facing Peronne has the classic form of two echelons on two sides of Peronne, which is said to be the only one of the well-known dispositions laid down in ancient tactics that has survived the revolutionizing developments of the present war. The right of this formation is protected by a defensive curve that unites the new front with the old line. Taciturns declare the maneuver that accomplished this formation constituted one of the most notable strategic phases of the war.

Quiet in French Sector.

Today's statement from the Paris War Office says:

"The night passed quietly on both sides of the Somme River."

"On the left bank of the Meuse there was intermittent bombardment last night while on the right bank the artillery fighting became more violent in the vicinity of the Thilamont Wood and in the sectors of Fleury and Chenois. At the Le Petre Wood the enemy yesterday delivered a small attack upon one of our trenches, but they were at once driven out of the position where they succeeded in gaining lodgment. In this same sector a surprise attack by our av was in all respects successful along a front of 200 yards. Our grenade throwers cleaned out the trench of the enemy, and we brought back some prisoners."

German aeroplanes yesterday threw down several bombs on the open town of Lure. Eleven persons were killed and three were wounded. With the exception of one soldier all the victims were either women or children. This was an act of reprisal for our aerial activity of July 5 when one of our air squadrons threw down with success a bomb from the railroad junction at Hem, to the west of Charleville. ## GERMAN LINE IN SOUTH VOLHYNIA IS DRAWN BACK

Berlin Admits the Evacuation of Salient Pointing Toward Czartorysk.

AUSTRIANS LOSE GROUND

Announce Five-Mile Withdrawal on the Dniester — Fighting on Whole Front.

BERLIN, July 7.—A salient of the German line in Volhynia projecting toward Czartorysk has been abandoned under superior pressure by the Russians and a new line of defense selected. It was announced today by the War Office.

The repulse of Russian attacks on both sides of Sokul in the Volhynian region is reported.

Heavy attacks by the Russians against Field Marshal von Hindenburg's forces south of Lake Narocz, but after fierce fighting were repulsed.

"On both sides of Sokul Russian attacks broke down with heavy losses. "West and southwest of Lutsk the situation is unchanged.

"Against the front of Field Marshal von Hindenburg the Russians continued their operations. They attacked with strong forces south of Lake Narocz, but after fierce fighting were repulsed.

"Northeast of Smorgon and at other points they were easily repulsed.

Petrograd Reports Fighting Along Whole Eastern Line.

PETROGRAD, July 7.—The official statement issued last night by the War Office said:

"The number of prisoners we took on July 4 and 5 during the fighting which still is going on west of the line of the Styr and below the town of Kolki, totals more than 300 officers and 748 men, mostly unarmored. We also captured six guns, 23 machine guns, several thousand rifles, two searchlights, 11 bomb throwers and 73 ammunition dumps.

"We repulsed violent German attacks near Gulyatyn. On the right bank of the Dniester in the region of Jiatichief and Hottizars there was desperate fighting.

"There was a lively artillery duel in many sectors of the front north of the Pnak marshes. East of Baranovich the enemy launched several desperate counter attacks which we repulsed.

Several times the enemy opened gusts of fire with his heavy and light guns against the region of the village of Labury east of Baranovich. Under cover of this fire the enemy delivered two violent counter attacks. We drove him back on both occasions, bringing to bear on him the fire of our artillery, machine guns and rifles.

The official communication, issued yesterday, said:

"Gallia—After intense artillery preparations, we made an energetic offensive west of the lower Strpa and on the right bank of the Dniester. The enemy was defeated and driven back. Our troops are approaching the Korpiok and Soudodok rivers, tributaries of the Dniester. We took here yesterday nearly 5000 prisoners and 11 machine guns. We lost the brave Capt. Bogouhouky, killed in action.

"In the course of an attack on the village of Vertnhi the Germans received our troops with liquid fire. Owing to their conduct we put all the Germans to the bayonet when we captured the village. We took prisoners in this region more than 1000 men. At one point in this action our Cossack Tartars charged the enemy and put him to flight.

"Offensive on Strpa.

"Yesterday a band of 20 Cossacks swam the Dniester near Doline and took prisoner on the right bank five officers and 108 soldiers. They captured a cannon.

"In the region of Riga the Germans

Berlin Announces Capture of Prize by Portion of "Our High Sea Forces."

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, via London, July 7.—Official announcement was made today that the British steamship Lestrin was held up by German warships near the English coast and seized as a prize.

The statement says the Lestrin was held up "by a portion of the German high sea forces."

The announcement follows: "The British steamship Lestrin, from Liverpool, has been held up by a portion of the German high sea forces not far from the English coast and seized as a prize."

The Lestrin is a steamship of 1334 tons gross, owned in Cork.

Woman Injured in Auto Wreck in Critical Condition

Miss Laura Bopp Was Erroneously Reported to Have Died in Kirkwood Yesterday.

Miss Laura Bopp of Manchester, St. Louis County, is still in a critical condition at the home of relative in Kirkwood as a result of injuries received in an accident in which two other women were killed when Henry C. Hoffmann's automobile turned over on the Denny road near the Sunset Hill Country Club, Wednesday afternoon.

It was erroneously reported and published in late editions of the Post-Dispatch yesterday that Miss Bopp had died. This report was widely circulated at Kirkwood and Manchester, and not until late in the evening was it learned that Miss Bopp's condition was unchanged.

Woman Chases Burglar.

Mrs. George Harkness of 3550 Kensington avenue chased a burglar from the home of Fred Butcher, 5052 Kensington avenue, yesterday afternoon. The burglar family is out of the city, and until they return the police will not know what was taken.

"When I left — village last night a fresh batch of German prisoners passed through. The guards told me these captives were nearly dead from lack of water, besides starving and only the torrential rain yesterday kept them alive.

"The French barrier fire absolutely prevented supplies reaching them or them retreating. All they could do was crawl in their dugouts and hope a shell would not find them."

French Hold 15 Towns.

How well Gen. Foch laid his plans for the thrust is evidenced by the fact that not a single village or position captured by the French has been retaken by the Germans. The French hold all 15 towns they entered. That Foch knew just what he was doing before the attack began is shown by the order that all the advancing troops need carry no knapsacks.

The charging columns carried only rifles, ammunition and grenades. Unencumbered by their 30 pounds of hardware the supporting troops advanced forward more quickly than ever before brought up their packs, rations and canteens.

That the Germans in the neighborhood of Flaucourt kept the youths of the 1916 and even the 1917 classes in the firing trenches, while hardened veterans of between 25 and 30 years held the safer support trenches is the rear, was testimony of a young Colonial Captain whose tunic is adorned with the Legion of Honor and the War Cross.

"When we charged over the shell pitted ground against the first trenches of the Germans' second line," he said, "we thought they might be deserting, for not a single sound came from them. So often entering the trenches we were surprised to find a whole company of boyish-looking chaps cowering in the bomb proof dugouts, completely dazed

PARIS, July 7.—Following the French guarded against the Germans hiding in dugouts until the charging columns had advanced beyond the first line positions and then emerging and taking them in the rear by machine gun fire, as they did with the British, I was told to me by a slightly wounded "polly" in a hospital near here.

"Our storming columns were followed closely by waves of additional soldiers, who merely occupied the positions captured by the first line."

"A German trench we always left enough men to hold it, manning the Germans' machine guns, and liberally provided them with hand grenades. We even placed men in all the small circular redoubts constructed by the Germans between the first and second trench lines. Thus we were always ready when the Germans attempted to sally forth to attack from the rear."

"My lieutenant discovered a Prussian officer in a dugout, a telephone strapped to his ears and ready to press an electric switch when our supporting column advancing in dense formation behind the charging units passed over a subterranean mine."

"Nine Miles Averted."

The lieutenant told the Prussian and seized the telephone receiver in time to hear the word, "fire in German." A minute later the mine would have been exploded, engulfing our men."

Another wounded man I interviewed was a Liaison bicyclist, a messenger whose duty it was to ride between the British and French forces in the newly won territory before the telephones had been installed.

"It wasn't such dangerous work after dark as far as bullets were concerned," he said, "but shell holes were dangerous for a bicycle and shrapnel splinters are mighty hard on tires. It was useless to try to follow the roads, as the bombardment had torn up the ground everywhere so I cut across a field to the Somme, crossing on a pontoon bridge the French had already built."

"Starting toward the British position at La Boisselle I rode plump into a big crater formed by the explosion of one of our newest heavy guns. The hole was full of Germans, who evidently had fallen back from Curia, when a French artillery reserve spotted them and dropped a shell squarely among them."

"A few were alive, but desperately wounded. Nevertheless, two revolvers were fired at me after I passed them."

Baltimore Doctor's Story.

A Baltimore doctor, transferred temporarily from the American ambulance corps to work at the chief French field hospital, returned today.

"I handled more German wounded than French during the first three days," he said, "and all the other surgeons I talked with said the same. The German wounded were divided roughly into two classes. Those with head wounds and those suffering nervous breakdowns. Of course, practically all the victims of the French bombardment were killed outright, and all showing signs of life when the French charged were bayoneted and killed."

"The French machine gun fire protecting the advancing infantry was particularly deadly to the Germans. Naturally, most of the French wounded were killed by the machine gun fire and the leg, as the Germans tried to break up their charges."

"A bullet in the leg is a small matter nowadays. Electric magnets draw them out immediately. That's why I say most 'pollys' were only slightly wounded."

"It is England and America and the fault of those weaklings in Berlin."

Some papers today under the headline "English Answer to America," tell of 368 bags of American mail being taken from the liner United States at Kirkwall. The fact that England so far has paid no attention to America's protest, or even answered it, is among the arguments used to show President Wilson never has had any real intention of pressing matters against England as he did against Germany.

So far there is not yet any indication of the Government weakening, but a crisis may come very quickly for the Chancellor.

by the frightful cannonade preceding our attack.

"Their relief at finding themselves prisoners would have been comic if it hadn't been pathetic. We left them in charge of a Corporal's squad engaged in the work of removing our wounded and their own, and moved on to the next German trench."

"Here matters were very different. A regular cloudburst of rifle and machine gun fire greeted us, and if it hadn't been for the smashing shelling our batteries let loose on them at that moment we might have had trouble getting through to them. Even when we were actively in the trench they gave us a warm time, but our plentiful supply of hand grenades finally forced them to give up."

"They were a battalion of a Prussian reserve regiment, belonging to a reserve corps which has been in the thick of the fighting ever since August, 1914. Several of their wounded spoke contemptuously of the boys who had been in the firing trench ahead of them and refused to be carried rearward by them."

"For myself, when my wound prevented me from standing up longer, I was glad enough to have a couple of those 1916 class lads carry me to the dressing station on a stretcher."

CHANCELLOR FAGES CRISIS OVER SUBMARINE WAR

Strong Sentiment for Renewal of Undersea Campaign Develops in Germany.

AMERICA BLAMED FOR CONTINUATION OF WAR AND GROWING STRENGTH OF ALLIES.

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World. (Copyright, 1916, by Press Pub. Co.)

BERLIN, July 7.—With terrific battles raging on the fronts east and west, an internal conflict is raging beneath the surface to force the Government to resume rigorous submarine war against England.

The Government appears to be torn between the oppositional agencies at work. The agitation, which has been held below the surface of public discussion by the firm hand of the Chancellor, is again cropping out here and there.

As a symptom of this, Count Reventlow, in a characteristically aggressive editorial in the Deutsches Tages-Zeitung this evening makes the United States responsible not only for the duration and the one-sided attitude through American munition, but tells the German people they can thank America for the present food situation of Germany and the privation that some may be suffering, and all because on the one hand of its one-sided attitude toward Germany, on the other the complacency at everything Great Britain does. He says:

"It is our opinion that the thoughts and will power of the German people should be directed to the fact that it is the work of the United States if German blood continues to be shed. It is no exaggeration to say that the war would long ago have been ended but for American munition deliveries."

"The United States not only has not let itself be diverted from this business, but apparently has been able to deliver on the French and English front the poison shells mentioned in these columns, and, on the other hand, without having at their disposal any effective war measures against us, have, according to Wilson's immortal words, knocked down the German submarine commerce, destroyed our warships in all matters where America is interested. Since then there reigns in England cheerful confidence and economical relief."

Reventlow then draws a contrast between the vast quantities of freights and munitions shipped to the United States and the small quantities of goods and munitions which the United States is seeking the cause for conditions prevailing, which Reventlow declares can only be found externally.

"All circles of the German people are realizing that if they are now suffering privations Great Britain is the cause; not only Great Britain, but the United States of America. Shall we not find these possibilities away from these two?"

Enemy Abundantly Supplied.

"We have acknowledged to America in Great Britain the freedom of the seas," in contrast of which our enemies are abundantly supplied with munition and other war materials, and with foodstuffs and raw materials, and with everything they wish. Today we read that negotiations are on between England and America for a new loan.

"Through the 'freedom of the seas' for our opponents they are safe against any danger or threat to their commerce from the bad submarine war. But on the German fronts there flows without cessation the streams of blood."

"Time helps those who use it."

With such arguments as these the agitation and pressure for resumption of vigorous submarine war is being brought. Not infrequently women who complain of food shortages and difficulties in procuring from the present food conditions are told:

"It is England and America and the fault of those weaklings in Berlin."

Some papers today under the headline "English Answer to America," tell of 368 bags of American mail being taken from the liner United States at Kirkwall. The fact that England so far has paid no attention to America's protest, or even answered it, is among the arguments used to show President Wilson never has had any real intention of pressing matters against England as he did against Germany.

VIRTUAL ALLIANCE FORMED BY RUSSIA AND JAPAN

They Agree to Enter Into No Political Combination Against Each Other and to Mutually Protect Rights of Both.

TOKIO, July 7.—The Japanese Foreign Office today announced as the substance of the Russo-Japanese convention signed at Petrograd on July 2, the following:

"First—Japan will take part in no arrangement or political combination directed against Russia. Russia will take part in no arrangement or political combination directed against Japan."

Second—In case the territorial rights or special interests in the Far East of one of the contracting parties which are recognized by the other contracting party are menaced, Japan and Russia will consult with each other on measures to adopt with a view to supporting or extending assistance for the safeguarding and defense of these rights and interests."

Effect as to China.

To a question from the Associated Press representative as to what effect the alliance would have upon the open door and the integrity of China, the Foreign Office replied:

"The convention is effectively an emphasis upon and an extension of the Anglo-Japanese alliance based upon the territorial integrity of China, whose open door and integrity are now endangered. American trade and interests are in no wise affected."

The Foreign Office denies affirmations in Japanese newspapers that the convention contained secret clauses.

The accord, which is virtually an alliance, is regarded here as of historic importance as concerns the future development of the Far East and world politics generally. It ends a long period of hostility between the two empires which culminated in the Russo-Japanese war and strengthened the position of Japan as a first-class power.

Now that Japan and Russia are pooling their interests in the Far East, they will free themselves of the necessity of regarding each other as possible enemies in the future and from thenceforth tenacious of large bodies of troops on their respective frontiers.

The first impression in Tokio is that the convention is framed to meet attempts at the extension of German influence in the Far East, believed to be undesirable, while the hands of both powers are strengthened in dealing with the situation in China.

Purpose of Convention Said to Be Lasting Peace in Far East.

PETROGRAD, July 7.—A Russo-Japanese political convention of two articles was signed yesterday by the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs, Sergei Sazonoff and the Japanese Ambassador, Baron Ichiro Motono. The object of the convention is to unify the efforts of the two countries to maintain a lasting and constant peace in the Far East.

By experiments with animals, epidemiologists have succeeded in identifying carriers of many other diseases. It is hoped that before the close of the present epidemic the score of doctors working on the problem will have succeeded in attaining the end they seek.

SECOND MAN IS KILLED BY SHARK OFF JERSEY COAST

Hotel Employee at Spring Lake, N. J., Seized While Swimming Outside Ropes.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRING LAKE, N. J., July 7.—Under the eyes of hundreds on the boardwalk, a shark yesterday laid to rest a young man, and tore his right side. Brudey died before men who had gone to his rescue could get him ashore.

This is the second time within four days that sharks have taken human life off the New Jersey coast. On Sunday Charles E. Van Sant of Philadelphia was killed by one off Beach Haven.

In Van Sant's case the shark was plainly seen, according to persons on the beach. Its fins and body came out of the water, and a bulge at the man-eater that killed Brudey was the man-eater. Only the youth's screams marked the tragedy.

Col. W. J. Shaffer, a physician, examined the young man's body in the morgue at Manasquan. Dr. Shaffer gave it as his opinion that the injuries could have been made by no other creature than a shark. Brudey's left leg had been snapped off above the knee, his right leg just below the knee.

Brudey was 28 years old, and had worked several years as a bellboy at the Hotel Jersey. He was a native of New Jersey and a strong swimmer. His life ended about 100 feet off shore. Brudey was fully a hundred feet beyond that. The life guards, Chris Anderson and George Valt, knowing his prowess, paid no attention to him.

Suddenly Brudey's cries sounded. A woman on shore joined in his scream. Anderson and White went to Brudey in a boat. When they drew him into the boat Brudey was still conscious.

"A shark bit me," he whispered. He died before he was landed.

This second visitation of a man-eating shark—may or may not be the same that attacked young Van Sant off Beach Haven—is causing a wave of terror along the Jersey shore, distracting alike to the visitors and those who conduct the resorts.

Anderson Tells of Cl.

Anderson, when seen by the Post-Dispatch at his hotel, told of the conference of the men met in the office were Harding, Rudolph, Burges, proprietor of the Hotel Jersey, which has off those of the league, and of those present at the meeting in the Odeon a day, to which a Post-Dispatch obtained access for an editorial on the league's activities. Also Edward McGulgan, a usually is to be found in Masonic lodges in the building.

Anderson's story of the conference and the manner in which it was conducted was as follows:

"I was walking into the building," he said, "on the headquarters of the league, when the proprietor of the building, who had been in the lobby, hailed me and said: 'Gulgan had been there. I told him I was a committee member and he turned to Rudolph and said: 'Shortly after this, I went into the committee room that he wanted me to occupy. He wanted me to occupy the room for the committee. There we were with our friends and a little dark-eyed girl came and said Mr. Harding was a moment. In a short time there were present in the room, Rudolph and McGulgan."

"Burges did nearly all the talking and said that the League to Enforce Humanity was a league's candidate, and withdrew."

"I told them that I was for the office because of personal wishes but that if I would continue to be interested in the league for political purposes, although I might want could not do so because who were backing me, what they asked was whether the conference office."

"When I got out on started walking toward almost reached the corner caught up with me to stop a minute. We were the corner of the walk, where for several minutes."

"Harding said 'Pete, I draw from the race for league will circulate a tent to the Board of Health to have your name on Circuit Clerk's door you."

"He said, 'If you do your name on the sample size big star, but if I have to put you down last.' 'The star is used in marking the name they endorse and who 'good Americans' as a anti- or pro-Romantic oppose."

"I told him I had started exactly at the conference and that I couldn't tell him I didn't care. I did with regard to my friends. I was sure."

"As an afterthought I the way, Pete, what I told him I was not but that I had been a member. He then asked me who were backing me and I told him I was not but that I had been a member. He then asked me who were backing me and I told him I was not but that I had been a member."

"He surprised me. Well, the Lutherans and Catholics, if not some could do so. I kept from punching him that busy corner."

"I terminated the bandits."

VOTERS' LEAGUE ASKED ANDERSON TO WITHDRAW

Candidate for Head of Board of Aldermen Tells of Conference With Leaders.

SAID TO BE FOR RUDOLPH

Declares They Offered to Indorse Him for Circuit Clerk,
but He Turned Them Down.

The Post-Dispatch, continuing its investigation of the "dark-lantern" methods of the Independent Voters' League, an organization formed for the purpose of defeating all candidates at elections who are Catholics, learned today of an attempt made a week ago by leaders of the secret league to get Peter Anderson, Republican City Committeeman and a candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, to withdraw from the race for that office in favor of E. E. Rudolph, the league's candidate.

Anderson, who has been identified with Republican politics in St. Louis for many years, was formerly Inspector of Weights and Measures. He is a plastering contractor and lives at 3444 Adelaide avenue. Rudolph is a lawyer and a member of the Board of Aldermen. He lives at 8222 Church road.

The Post-Dispatch learned that Anderson was summoned to the secret office of the league in the Benoit Building, where the proposition was made to him that he withdraw from the race. He declined and left the office, but before he had gone far Greene F. Harding, who had been in the conference in the league's headquarters, caught him on the street and made a second proposition. It was learned.

Anderson Tells of Conference.
Anderson, when seen by a reporter for the Post-Dispatch at his home, freely told of the conference and what had transpired at the meeting. He said the men he met in the office of the league were Harding, Rudolph and Charles T. Burgess, proprietor of the Burgess Printing Co., which has offices adjoining those of the league, and who was one of those present at the league's secret meeting in the Odeon a week ago Sunday, to which a Post-Dispatch reporter gained access for an expose of the league's activities.

Anderson said that for some time the league had been seeking to draw him into its ranks. Five admission tickets to the secret Odeon meeting were mailed to him, he said, but he did not use any of them or give them to others. Burgess when seen by a reporter and asked for a statement concerning the matter denied that he had a conference had been held or that he had suggested to Anderson the latter's withdrawal from the race. He was then asked if he had ever held an conference with Anderson on any political topic.

"That's none of your business," he replied. "Everybody knows the Post-Dispatch is yellow. It's always looking for a sensation and is always wrong, so the best thing I can do is say nothing and let the people who believe what they see in your paper. I don't want you to bother me again about anything."

Anderson said he had known McGulgan for several years as a law salesman and that he had frequently seen him lounging about the lobby of the Odd Fellows Building. McGulgan took no part, he said, in the conversation at the conference.

Rudolph Makes Denial.
Alderman Rudolph, when seen by a reporter, emphatically and in such conference as told of by Anderson and said the story was "a sneaking, dirty, lowdown falsehood."

"Anderson and I filed on the same day for the office a few minutes apart," he said, "and neither of us knew the other was filing. When Circuit Clerk Graves died, Anderson told me he was going to withdraw from the race for President of the Board of Aldermen and file for Circuit Clerk. I didn't want him in the race and encouraged his filing for that office."

"Then when Anderson lost in the nomination in the fight against Goldstein for the Circuit Clerk's place he came to me and said he did not want to get back in the race but that his supporters were insisting that he do so and he felt under obligation to them."

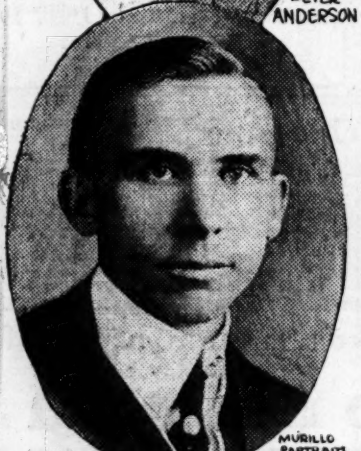

"He asked me to go to the city treasurer and the Board of Election Commissioners and make a fight against his re-filing so that it would appear to his supporters that he was trying to get back in the race but I could not do so because of the friends who were backing me. I told them what they asked was impossible and ended the conference. Then I left the office."

"When I got out on Ninth street I started walking toward Olive and had almost reached the corner when Harding caught up with me and asked me to stop a minute. We stood to the edge of the walk where we were talking for several minutes."

GERMAN-AMERICAN ALLIANCE INDORSES CANDIDATE LISTS

Will Make Recommendations as to Men Running in Both Parties, on All Tickets.

PUBLICATION TUESDAY

Sele ctions Said to Be Based on Question of Personal Liberty
and Not That of Germanism.

The activity of the German-American Alliance (Deutsch-Amerikanischer Nationalbund) was asserted last night when it met and indorsed a complete slate of candidates for all state, judicial, congressional, legislative and city offices.

The indorsements, according to Paul O. Sommer, chairman of the Legislative Committee, were not based upon the Germanism of the candidates, but upon whether their replies were satisfactory to the alliance on the issues of personal liberty and prohibition. The Alliance is strong for personal liberty and against prohibition.

Letting Candidates.
Sommer, when seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter, said the Alliance had sent to every candidate a letter, of which the following is a copy:

"St. Louis, Mo., June 30, 1916.—My Dear Sir: Your candidacy for the primaries on Aug. 1, 1916, calls for your replies to the questions enumerated below, which are of vital importance to the German-American Alliance of St. Louis and the Legislative Committee of the organization, of which body the writer is chairman. In that these organizations are making every possible effort to have elected to office those whom they believe to be for personal liberty and against prohibition. As a meeting of the alliance will be held on July 6, for the purpose of indorsing candidates, it will be to your advantage to let us have your reply by return mail.

1. Are you for personal liberty?
2. How do you stand on prohibition?
3. Did you make any promises to the Anti-Saloon League?"

PAUL O. SOMMER, Chairman.
Sommer said that Moses Hartmann, Vital W. Garsche, John W. Calhoun and Chester Kern, candidates for Circuit Judge in St. Louis, Hans Vuffa, candidate for Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction; Henry A. Kersting, Republican candidate for Congress in the Tenth District; Otto J. Schultz, Federal candidate for Congress in the Eleventh District; and Henry C. Menne, Democratic candidate for Sheriff, were members of the German-American Alliance, but that no preference had been shown to them over the other candidates.

Two Members Not Indorsed.
He said that the league refused to indorse Wulff and Kersting, who have been in the German propaganda in this country. The list of candidates indorsed will be made public next Tuesday, Sommer said, after all of the 20,000 members in St. Louis have been notified of the action of the alliance and the legislative committee. Sommer said that the German-American Alliance branches of Kansas City, Hermann and Cape Girardeau were working with the St. Louis branch and the State or local candidates for Sheriff, Webster, both chemists, to convince the jury that Marion died of cyanide of potassium in solution. Both had testified to this as a fact, but Dr. McNally yesterday, having conducted further examinations, swore positively that his first testimony was erroneous and that the powdered poison caused her death. Dr. Webster was said to be in Wisconsin on a fishing expedition.

Alcohol on Stand.
Another important witness was Dr. W. O. Krohn, an alienist, who testified that a tendency toward suicide and that Orpet's "bad, too" upon suddenly finding Marion dead was to be expected in a young man of his temperament.

Another important point brought out was that the so-called cyanide of potassium which was in the greenhouse over which Orpet's father had charge, was in reality cyanide of sodium. All of the chemists examined agreed on this, and that it contained only a trace—less than 1 per cent—of cyanide of potassium.

Nearly four grains of cyanide of potassium were found in Marion's stomach. Dr. Minor testified that Marion would have had to take a pound and a half of the dry cyanide of sodium from the greenhouse to have gotten that much cyanide of potassium into her stomach. As a solution, he said, she would have had to drink about three quarts. The State has contended all along that young Orpet obtained the poison from the greenhouse and carried a solution of it to Marion in a two-ounce bottle.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS
WASHINGTON, July 7.—Continued consideration of agricultural appropriation bill.
Commerce Committee discussed Government shipping bill.
Resumed debate on administration revenue bill.

100 Soldiers Killed in Wreck.
LARRY, Tex., July 7.—One hundred Carranza soldiers were killed and many injured June 29 in a rear-end collision between the northbound troop trains at Catorce Station, between San Luis Potosi and Saltillo, according to Mexican passengers arriving here from the south.

Fireman Killed in Mississippi Wreck.
HATTIESBURG, Miss., July 7.—A fireman was killed and two other men injured when a northbound Gulf & Ship Island passenger train was wrecked here early today. No passengers were hurt. A washout caused the wreck.

DEFENSE RESTS IN THE ORPET MURDER TRIAL

Documentary Evidence Is Introduced at Final Session Before Rebuttal Begins.

WAKEGAM, Ill., July 7.—The defense, after introducing documentary evidence, rested today in the case of William H. Orpet, the college student charged with the murder of Marion Lambert.

The evidence offered was a copy of the Wisconsin statute governing the sale of poison.

Attorney David R. Joslyn of the prosecution said that he wanted Orpet called for further cross-examination with regard to Celestia Youker, the young woman to whom he was reported engaged.

Miss Mason, called by the defense, had testified that she learned from her mother that Orpet was engaged to marry Celestia and that two or three days before Marion's death last February, as she and Marion were looking out of a window at school, she told her unsuspecting friend the news. Both later at the time, an old and crippled woman fighting her way through the snow. According to Dorothy, Marion received the news of Orpet's engagement with the comment:

"Do you know what I think. Sometimes I think that life isn't worth living."

On cross-examination at that time Attorney Joslyn attempted to get the witness to admit that she had not given the quotation in full and that Marion had continued "for a decrepit old woman like that."

She denied that H. J. Carlin, an investigator for the defense, had advised her that the conclusion of the comment on Marion's remark was of no importance.

Present at Interview.
Mrs. Youker testified that she was present at the interview between Carlin and Miss Mason and that she was at that time gave the quotation in full concluding with mention of the old woman. "Mr. Carlin," went on the witness, "told her she could elaborate on the first part but that she could treat the last part as unimportant."

On cross examination the witness admitted that she acted with counsel for the State in an attempt to obtain damaging admissions from Orpet.

The familiar green cloak worn by Marion and Lambert was the three powder spots on it was again brought out by Frank N. Blakeslee, the court stenographer, took the stand.

"I saw the cloak and the spots Feb. 13," said he. This was to rebut defense testimony that the spots were not there and that the garment for the powder spots was not there.

Dr. W. J. McNally, as a defense witness yesterday, reversed the testimony which he gave three weeks ago for the State. The prosecution had relied upon his testimony and that of Dr. Ralph Webster, both chemists, to convince the jury that Marion died of cyanide of potassium in solution. Both had testified to this as a fact, but Dr. McNally yesterday, having conducted further examinations, swore positively that his first testimony was erroneous and that the powdered poison caused her death. Dr. Webster was said to be in Wisconsin on a fishing expedition.

Alcohol on Stand.
Another important witness was Dr. W. O. Krohn, an alienist, who testified that a tendency toward suicide and that Orpet's "bad, too" upon suddenly finding Marion dead was to be expected in a young man of his temperament.

Another important point brought out was that the so-called cyanide of potassium which was in the greenhouse over which Orpet's father had charge, was in reality cyanide of sodium. All of the chemists examined agreed on this, and that it contained only a trace—less than 1 per cent—of cyanide of potassium.

Nearly four grains of cyanide of potassium were found in Marion's stomach. Dr. Minor testified that Marion would have had to take a pound and a half of the dry cyanide of sodium from the greenhouse to have gotten that much cyanide of potassium into her stomach. As a solution, he said, she would have had to drink about three quarts. The State has contended all along that young Orpet obtained the poison from the greenhouse and carried a solution of it to Marion in a two-ounce bottle.

FEW GUARDSMEN ARE EXPECTED TO SEEK DISCHARGES

About 2000 Likely to Take Advantage of Relief for Those With Dependents.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Officials of the War Department do not expect more than 2000 soldiers to take advantage of Secretary Baker's order issued yesterday, instructing commanders of departments to discharge men with dependent families from the national guard. This order is the result of a battle between the War Department pleading for the release of husbands whose wives and families are being left in straightened circumstances as a result of the mobilization.

How many men will be affected by the order is a matter of conjecture, as only those who apply for their release and submit evidence of dependence will be discharged.

When asked whether the regulation would make it possible for wives and dependents to petition for the release of the guardians to whom they looked for support, War Department officials said: "It will be necessary for the soldier to file his own petition and no soldier will be discharged unless he makes a desire."

Officers who drew up the order said that it was so framed that it could include those men who have left at home aged parents and minor children dependent on them, and whose remaining on the border any length of time will work an unbearable hardship on these dependents.

WOMAN, HALTED AS SPEEDER,
'TALKS PAST' DEPUTY SHERIFF

Mrs. Fred J. Berkley Maintains Machine Can't Run as Fast as Was Charged.

Mrs. Fred J. Berkley of 17 Hortense place talked herself out of an arrest for speeding on the St. Charles road, road, at 5:30 last evening. Deputy Sheriff Madden related at Clayton this morning that he followed Mrs. Berkley's car east for three miles, and that his speedometer showed she was running 35 miles an hour.

When he overtook her, there was quite a discussion as to the necessity of giving her name, which she at length did. Then there was an amiable debate as to the speed, the young woman maintaining that her "boat" was not capable of running 35 miles an hour. Then she suddenly remarked that she was late for the city, which she said, and started her car for the city without awaiting the deputy's "yes," which came as she motored away.

DUCK ISLAND CLUBS WIN
FIGHT AGAINST POACHERS

Members of Preserve in Fulton County (Ill.) Get Permanent Injunction After Ten-Year Effort.

PEORIA, Ill., July 7.—After an unsuccessful fight of ten years in the State Supreme Court, the members of the Duck Island Hunting and Fishing Club have obtained from the United States Court a permanent injunction restraining fishermen and hunters from poaching on the club preserve.

The preserve, situated in Fulton County between Lewisport and the Illinois River on which it fronts. It contains 2400 acres and is rich in game fish and wild fowl.

Rivermen formed an association to fight the wealthy club members who owned the great tracts and employed armed guards to keep away poachers. Blood was spilled and criminal trials marked the progress of the fight.

Citizens Asked to Sign Petition for Nonpartisan City Ballots

THE Citizens' Campaign Committee for Nonpartisan Ballot today sent out the following appeal:

TO THE CITIZENS OF ST. LOUIS:
THERE are being circulated among the voters throughout the city petitions to submit on the ballot next November a new nonpartisan system of city elections. This is the next big step forward to better city government. It means transferring the control of nominations from the politicians to the people. Every citizen and taxpayer should be interested to support this movement, because it will mean, better service to every home and business house and for every dollar of taxes paid.

The petitions are being circulated only this next week, because they must be filed with the Board of Election Commissioners at an early date in order to get the proposition on the ballot next fall. You are urged to sign a petition, if presented to you. As many citizens cannot be reached by the canvassers, those interested are urged to go to the office of the secretary, Ben. A. Wood, 620 Rialto Building, and sign petitions there. The signature of every registered voter who wants to free city government from political control is urgently necessary.

The new system makes the following changes:
Abolishes the party primary, a nominating medium which machine politicians have proven their ability to control.
Provides that any group of citizens to the number of 2 per cent of the voters may nominate by petition.
Prohibits all party names on ballots in city elections.

Provides, through what is known as preferential voting, for the election of Mayor, Comptroller and President of the Board of Aldermen by a majority instead of a mere plurality vote.

Saves the city the expense of a primary.
Saves the voter the trouble of making a second trip to the polls.
Makes available for public office, by canceling the need of filing an application for nomination, many high-class citizens who, feeling that the office should seek the man, are indisposed to seek the office.

Makes available for public office many citizens who, although particularly well qualified to serve the public, hesitate to file for a primary controlled by bosses from whom they are unwilling to take orders.

Saves a candidate for nomination much of the exertion incidental to the pre-primary period of campaigning.

election work, have been employed. They are working in the downtown district, visiting offices. Volunteers, members of the committee and others interested in the change, are also making rounds, while two men have been detailed to visit the heads of large business establishments to interest them in obtaining the signatures of employees.

The petitioners are being received at the office of the Civic League, and at the office of Benjamin A. Wood, secretary of the committee, in the Rialto Building.

The nonpartisan plan contemplates abolishing party primaries and provides that any group of citizens to the number of 2 per cent of the voters can nominate by petitions. It prohibits all party names on ballots on city elections and provides for the election of Mayor, Comptroller and President of the Board of Aldermen by a majority instead of a plurality vote.

The object of the petition is to get wider representation from the different bodys of the people. Under the present system, provided for in the nonpartisan petition, different bodies of men getting together can force the names of desirable candidates on the ballot and get representation according to the size of the vote cast.

THOSE DEPENDENT UPON MILITIAMEN NEED MORE HELP

Order to Release Men With Families From Service Will Not Solve Problem at Once.

Secretary Baker's order releasing from border duty members of the National Guard who have dependents will not relieve the present distress of these dependents in St. Louis, according to General Manager J. D. Flynn of the Citizens' National Guard Committee. It will take some time for the order to be carried out and in the meantime there are about 400 families of soldiers in St. Louis in actual want. They are in need of food and clothing. Some are threatened with eviction for non-payment of rent. Others are about to lose their furniture, which they have been purchasing on time-payments.

The committee has 20 visitors at work. Each is making eight visits a day to families in want, ascertaining their needs and doing all they can to relieve them. An average of 25 new families is reported each day as being in want.

An appeal to the public, signed by M. L. Wilkinson, chairman of the executive committee, was issued today. It says in part:

"Our soldiers are making the supreme sacrifice for our country, and these at home must realize their patriotic obligation to support these families. The duty does not admit of discussion, and is as urgent as the necessities of the dependents. In the midst of plenty we do not realize the want and distress as our very doors, suffered by those who have every claim upon our consideration, sympathy and support."

"The purpose of this letter is to challenge your attention sharply to this state of facts, and to ask you to perform a high duty. Through no fault of either the soldiers or their families this condition exists. The head of the family is gone, responding to his country's call, and the $16 paid him each month by the Government will not support his family.

"Clearly it will be a national humiliation and disgrace if we permit the helpless to suffer for the cause of our country, while we benefit by the sacrifice of our brave boys. Let each man and woman in this community give to this cause from a sense of the highest patriotic duty. Ask yourself the simple question, whether you would feel that the community is treating your family fairly if, while at the front, your wife and children or other dependents were suffering the pangs of hunger, of want and of neglect."

BRITISH NURSE TESTIFIES
IN NORDICA WILL CASE

Matron of South Sea Hospital Where Diva Died Got Month's Parole by War Office.

FREEMAN, N. J., July 7.—Miss Sadie Charlotte MacDonald, a British war nurse, who was given a month's furlough by the War Office to come here and testify in the litigation
over the estate of the late Mrs. Lillian Nordica, took the stand in court
here yesterday as one of the witnesses to the diva's will, made on Thursday Island, in the South Seas,
where she was taken in January, 1914, suffering from the effects of a shipwreck on the Australian coast.

Miss MacDonald was matron of the Torres Strait Hospital, where Mrs. Nordica died. She appeared in behalf of the singer's sisters, in whose favor the will was made. She was cross-examined by counsel for George W. Young, husband of Mrs.
Nordica, who was the beneficiary
under an earlier will and who instituted the contest over the estate.

When Miss MacDonald was sought
as a witness it was found she had enlisted as a war nurse and much difficulty was experienced in locating her. She was traced to Constantinople and then to Cairo, where it was learned she probably was "somewhere in France." Letters finally reached her at the front and arrangements were made through the British War Office for her to come to the United States to give her testimony.

CANDIDATES IN A
CONCERTED ATTACK
ON F. D. GARDNER

Six Opponents for Governor
Alarmed by Great Progress of St. Louisan.

DRY HELP IS SOUGHT

Campaign Against Manufacturer Particularly Strong in Prohibition Belt.

The fight for the Democratic nomination for Governor has developed into a concerted attack by the other candidates upon Fred D. Gardner of St. Louis.
Gardner, according to his campaign
managers, has developed such a lead
over all other candidates that they realize that the only chance for any one of his six opponents to win is to overcome his present advantage.

John M. Atkinson, James A. Housh,
John T. Barke, the Rev. M. L. Lindsey,
Cornelius Ross, and William R. Painter, either directly or through their campaign managers, are devoting most of their time to attacking Gardner.
These attacks are being made in the country districts, particularly the dry districts, where an effort is being made to line up the drys against Gardner.
His land bank bill is also being attacked and persons' attacks are being made upon him on a point of tax returns and other matters.

Gardner Undisturbed.
Gardner has paid little attention to the attacks that are being made upon him, but is pursuing his campaign actively and quietly. He will spend the greater part of next week campaigning in St. Louis.

Gardner's campaign managers say that despite the attacks being made upon him he will carry a majority of the counties in Missouri and will get 50 per cent of the Democratic vote of St.
Louis. Former State Senator Lee of Carter County said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today, that Gardner would carry his county by a vote of five to one over all the other candidates, and that there was not a county south of the Missouri River that he would not carry.

Gardner is having some trouble in restraining some of his campaign managers from firing back at the candidates who are attacking him. Gardner's managers are beginning to make inquiries to find out why the Yorkum
supporters in the Frisco railroad organization have become so active for John
M. Atkinson, former chairman of the Missouri Public Service Commission,
who wrote the decision which upheld
the contention of the stockholders who were supporting Yorkum in his fight against the Frisco in the reorganization plan. Sam L. Jarvis, who was associated with Yorkum and Moore Sale, who was attorney for Yorkum and Lazarus,
are members of the Atkinson organization in St. Louis.

John E. Swanger, Republican, who is being supported by the anti-Saloon League for Governor, will open his campaign in St. Louis tonight at a meeting to be held at 1441 Chouteau avenue. This meeting will be attended by the followers of the Kiel-Schmidt faction in St. Louis, and by the stughestarian Club which was organized by Schmidt. The members of the Twenty-Seventh Ward Republican League Club will attend in a body, and will make the trip from their headquarters at Hamilton and Easton avenues to the hall in decorated automobiles. Dr. Edward Schranz, William Martin and Alderman
Otto Koenig are in charge of the arrangements for the club.

Famous-Barr Employees' Outing.
The annual picnic and outing of the employees of the Famous-Barr Co. will be at Normandy Grove tomorrow afternoon and evening. Free transportation for the employees and their families will be provided by the store. The cars will depart from Sixth street and Washington avenue between 12 and 1 o'clock.
The entertainment features will include
dancing and athletic and other contests.

HENRY MAY RUN FOR SENATE

Will Oppose Willis H. Booth of Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 7.—Francis
J. Henry, one time famous graft prosecutor and now City Attorney of Santa

that he may become a candidate for the United States Senate in opposition to Willis H. Booth, Republican of Los Angeles.

Referring to a rumor that Wm. H.
Crocker of San Francisco, multimillionaire, banker and Republican National Committeeman, may enter the lists for the senatorship, Henry said: "I would enjoy being a candidate against Crocker."

PHILADELPHIA MINT TURNED OUT $42,384,876 IN YEAR

Republic of Cuba, Establishing Own
Currency, Takes $25,058,585
Worth of Coins.

PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—The report of the annual report of the mint for the fiscal year ended June 30, made public today by Robert Clark, superintendent of the mint, shows that 156,101,323 pieces, representing a value of $42,384,876, were turned out of this total $42,022,982 pieces, valued at $27,642,287, were for foreign account.

The Republic of Cuba, establishing for the first time its own currency, took more than 3,000,000 pieces of gold, silver and nickel with an aggregate value of $25,058,585, while Central and South American countries took the remainder of the foreign output. The coins completed for the United States totaled 10,098,320 pieces, with a value of $14-742,731. It included all denominations from pennies to double eagles.

During the last few weeks of the year the demand for small coin was unprecedented, the average shipment of nickel five-cent pieces for 15 days being $90,000 a day. Most of them were for subtreasuries in the Middle West.

TAUGHT BOYS TO BE SOLDIERS,
STAY AT HOME THEMSELVES

Two Educators at Portland Receive
Call From Mothers of Boys
Now at Border.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 7.—Because
two members of the faculty of a large city high school did not "practice their teachings" and enlist in the Oregon National Guard, several mothers of boys
now in arms on the Mexican border called on the educators yesterday and asked their reasons for being "slack-ers." After three hours of discussion most of the mothers said they were satisfied with the teachers' explanations.
Others felt otherwise.

One of the teachers said he had helped to organize the machine gun company
with which the boys went to the front,
and had enlisted, but that he resigned
later when his four children became ill.
The other said he had not intended to enlist as his duties in Portland were more important.

Several of the boys, the mothers said,
were less than 17 years of age.

Each Delegation Declares Result of Satisfactory.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Delegations
of woman suffragists and anti-suffragists visited Charles E. Hughes yesterday and each declared the conference was entirely satisfactory. The Republican presidential nominee returned late in the day to his summer home at Bridgehampton, after having conferred with several prominent Republican and Progressive leaders.

Hughes was visited first by a committee of suffragists composed of Mrs.
Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National Woman's Suffrage Association;
Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, former president of the association, and Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse, president of the State Suffrage organization. He then received a delegation of six anti-suffragists.

The nominee will go this afternoon to Roslyn, N. Y., where he will attend a reception to be given in his honor by Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

Today Is Proving One of the Greatest Shoe Sales St. Louis Has Seen

IT is just what we promised—a S-E-N-S-A-T-I-O-N. The hundreds who came today were amazed at the wonderful values

MILKMAN'S YELLS BRING HELP

Fallen from a milk wagon, a milkman, who was running west, yelled so loudly that policemen at Twenty-first and Middle streets, four blocks away, heard him.

The policemen ran over Twenty-first street to Carr and headed off Ivan Dee, 17 years old, who was running west. Matusofsky identified Dee as one of the robbers. Matusofsky lost nothing. Dee had an open knife in his pocket.

"NICKEL PLATE" BOUGHT TO AID TERMINAL PLAN

Cleveland Promoters Wanted Road's Facilities in That City in General Scheme.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CLEVELAND, O., July 7.—The spectacular operations of O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, Cleveland terminal builders, reached a new climax today when it was announced from the headquarters of the New York Central Railroad in New York that the Cleveland promoters had purchased the holdings of the Central in the Nickel Plate Railroad for $5,500,000.

The plans of the Van Sweringen syndicate have not been announced, but one of its financial associates admitted that the Nickel Plate had been purchased because its local terminal facilities were wanted to form an integral part of a comprehensive terminal scheme that the Cleveland promoters have been steadily evolving over a period of the past half dozen years.

It is understood in the financial district that a Cleveland and New York banking syndicate is in process of formation to take over all of the Van Sweringen realty and railroad terminal properties. It will be one of the largest syndicates ever formed in this city. Those associated with the transaction state with emphasis that while the deal is so large that Eastern capital will be interested, the New York Central will have no interest whatever in the terminal project.

The Cleveland principals in the closing of the negotiations include the Van Sweringens, J. R. Nutt of the Citizens' Savings and Trust Co., Warren S. Hayden of Hayden, Miller & Co., and M. E. Johnson. Neither the Van Sweringens nor the bankers had returned from New York last night.

The Van Sweringens operations began about 10 years ago, with the successful sale of an allotment on the heights. They had been financed in this operation by a Buffalo capitalist, W. H. Gratwick.

The next operation was the purchase of a large amount of property on Shaker Heights, also financed by their original Buffalo financial backer, and the purchase of a right of way through Kingsbury Run to a proposed terminal on Ontario street, downtown.

When their plans were well advanced a local syndicate was formed by Hayden, Miller & Co. to finance the building of a rapid transit line from the heights to the neighborhood of the public square.

Let the Post-Dispatch Resort Advertisements show you where to go this summer.

NEW YORK WANTS $4,000,000 FROM THE GREEN ESTATE

To Fight Probate of Will in Vermont, Where Direct Legacies Are Exempt.

TO BE NO APPRAISAL
If Empire State Wins Contentious Public Valuation Will Be Made.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, July 7.—The State of New York will fight the probate of Mrs. Hetty Green's will in Vermont and demand an inheritance tax of $4,000,000 to $6,000,000 on the $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 estimated value of the estate.

If the State of New York does not get this money no other state will, because, under the inheritance tax law of Vermont, no tax is imposed on property inherited by parents to children.

All but about $5,000,000 of Mrs. Green's fortune was willed direct to her children, Col. E. H. R. Green and Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilks, and all that Vermont will get out of the vast estate is five per cent of the outside legacies, the total inheritance tax amounting to approximately $1250.

Basin of New York Claim.
New York will base its figures on these clauses in its inheritance law: "Every person shall be deemed to have died a resident and not a non-resident of the State of New York if, when such person shall have died or shall have been domiciled in this State during his or her lifetime, he or she shall have been domiciled in this State during his or her lifetime."

"The burden of proof in a transfer tax proceeding shall be upon those claiming exemption by reason of the alleged non-residence of the decedent."

Charles W. Pierson of the law firm of Alexander & Green, who accompanied Col. Green and his sister to Mrs. Green's funeral at Bellows Falls and filed the application for probate of Mrs. Green's will, said yesterday on his return: "There is no question from our point of view as to where Mrs. Green had her legal residence. It was at Bellows Falls. She lived there continuously many years. Her children were brought up there. Her husband and she are buried there. It was her family home. We do not consider that the 1916 amendment to the New York inheritance tax law fixes her residence here or disposes of her claim that her legal residence was at Bellows Falls."

Estate to Be Kept Secret.
Pierson also said Col. Green and Mrs. Wilks will share, substantially alike, in the distribution of their mother's vast estate 10 years from now, when their joint trust fund, named in the will, expires. The trust fund is to keep it intact for a decade so it may grow as a whole.

Mrs. Green, in her will, also sought to keep forever hidden from the public the value of her estate and the identity of securities she held. This she did in a paragraph stipulating that no inventory or appraisal should be required of the executors, the son and daughter. Under the law of Vermont exempting from taxation the legacies to the children, nothing but the legacies is subject to approval and they would not be unless they were paid by the executors in securities. If paid in cash the whole estate would be a sealed book.

Under the New York law the entire estate would be subject to public appraisal. A dispatch from Bellows Falls said that an action at law by a disgruntled relative or by a "zealous public official" is the only way in which an inventory or appraisal can be sought.

Col. Green explained yesterday that his mother fought hard to bequests to charitable institutions because during her life time she gave liberally to charity, but always with the strict understanding that nothing should be said about it.

1700 Heirs to Small Part of Green Estate.
NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 7.—By the will of Sylvia Ann Howland, $1,000,000 was left in trust to Hetty Robinson (Mrs. Hetty Green) for the life of the descendants of Gideon Howland. The income of the trust fund was to be Hetty Robinson's for life, and the principal on her death to revert to the lineal descendants of her grandfather, Gideon H. Howland.

Under the will of Sylvia Ann Howland, Hetty Robinson (Mrs. Green) received a million, the lineal descendants a million after the death of Mrs. Green, the City of New Bedford $300,000 and Dr. William Gordon $50,000.

Forest Fire Has Burned Six Days.
DENVER, Colo., July 7.—A forest fire starting six days ago in the Rocky Mountain national forest on Thompson Creek, has destroyed timber valued at $50,000, according to estimates by forestry service officials here.

TWO AMERICAN AMBULANCE DRIVERS HURT AT VERDUN

Six-Inch Shell Explodes Near Section That Is Filled With French Wounded.
PARIS, July 7.—A six-inch shell which burst near the Richard Norton section of the American automobile ambulance on the Verdun front wrecked one of the ambulance cars and fragments of the shell struck the two American drivers. Harry Howard Hollinshead of Sparta, N. J., suffered a flesh wound in the forearm and Jacob Wendell of New York was wounded in the back. The section was filled with French wounded at the time.

LEMONADE STANDS YIELD CASH TO AID BABIES OF POOR

Youthful Post-Dispatch Fund Workers Also Present Play-Written by Child.

CONTRIBUTIONS. Previously acknowledged $902.84. Lantern show, 2002 Dodder street, 2.00. Cash, 2.00. Lemonade stand, 2.00. Last street, 2.00. Lemonade stand, 4820 Moffitt avenue, 1.50. Dorcas Carr Taylor and two companions, 1.50. Total $915.04.

Lemonade stands operated in behalf of the babies of the very poor, whose lives are in serious peril from unfavorable environment and the summer heat, are popular institutions in St. Louis these days. They are the enterprises of girls and boys constituting a highly important section of the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice League, through which agency thousands of babies have been saved during the past dozen years, and through which many thousands more will be saved to the community and the country in the future.

One of these stands, as means of building up the fund, and which realized $150, was conducted by Ralph Thomas of 4820 Moffitt avenue, Glen Cochran of 4877 Moffitt, Raymond Runder of 4822 Moffitt, and Norman Hutchens of 4829 Moffitt avenue.

"The amount is small," these sympathetic boys wrote with their remittance, "but it represents many steps, as we sold our lemonade for a penny a glass."

Another, through which an addition of $150 was made to the babies' relief fund, was conducted in front of 4307 Maryland avenue by Dorcas Carr Taylor, 10 years old, of 4877 Maryland, her brother, Ned, 7, and Jane Messick, 10, of 4307 Maryland avenue.

A third lemonade stand, the fruits of which are acknowledged today, was operated at 2819 Connecticut street by Evelyn Pausellus of that number, and Margaret Newport of 3825 Connecticut, the sum raised being $230.

In each of these three instances the time and enthusiasm devoted to the cause of the babies this year was but a continuance of the active interest manifested in previous years.

At the home of James Felpe, 2902 Dodder street, that young enthusiast for the cause of the babies, aided by little neighbors, including Annabelle Schleuter, John Hackman, Joe McDonald, Lambert Kalman and Harold Kicker, gave a splendid lantern show, displaying slides and post cards, to an audience that yielded admission fees totaling $2. These children also are among those who, each year, do a good part toward saving the lives of destitute infants.

A play written by Elma F. Yawitz of 5856 Berlin avenue, and produced under her direction in the rear yard of Joseph Corn, 5836 Waterman avenue, in which these two talented children are efficiently aided by their youthful neighbor Michael Liffander, of 5811 Berlin avenue, was the means employed by these dependable members of the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice League to render their aid this year. The splendidly produced playlet added $2.10 to the fund.

CONSIDERING PLAN TO HAUL GARBAGE
BY AUTO TRUCKS

Director Talbert Also Favors
Scheme for City to Build Own Reduction Plant.

The use of automobile trucks, for hauling garbage, after it has been collected in light wagons, is being considered as a part of the program for a new garbage disposal system, to be instituted when the present contract expires in September, 1918. The drivers' strike, which ended Wednesday,
has called attention to the somewhat antiquated method in use here, with all the work of collection and hauling
done by horses and wagons.

Talbert, director of streets and sewers, told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that he had been looking into the use made, in other cities, of motor conveyances in handling garbage. By the experience of New York, Detroit and Columbus, O., he said, it is shown that light wagons
are the most economical means of collection from house to house. One man can handle a horse and cart, while two are required for an automobile, and the heavy stops and starts cause a high maintenance cost.

Autos for Long Hauls.
But for the long haul, the auto
truck has been found cheaper as well as more satisfactory. Chicago tests show that, while the cost of loading
the trucks is a little higher, the cost of hauling is less. A two-ton wagon,
going three miles an hour, has a cost
per ton-mile of 25 cents, while a truck,
carrying a five-ton load, runs twice as fast, and has a ton-mile cost of 12 cents.

In New York, Cleveland, Detroit, Atlanta and several other cities, transfer stations are maintained, at which wagons turn over their collections to the trucks, which haul it to receiving stations, for transportation by rail
or water to the reduction plant.

Two methods of transferring the contents of wagons to automobiles are in use in different cities. One is to equip wagons with movable beds which, with their loads, are lifted by cranes to automobiles and trailers.
The other method is to gather garbage with sweepings and refuse from the streets and loaded directly into the automobiles. The latter system is confined almost wholly to Southern cities, where garbage is not so heavy
as in northern cities of like population.

Estimates made by the Street Department two years ago, after determining the cost of hauling by wagons
in St. Louis, and comparing the figures with the cost of operating automobiles in transporting garbage, indicated that an automobile tractor
and two trailers could do the work of 10 teams and wagons. The saving by this substitution of mechanical for animal traction would be equal to about $3500 a year. This was for long hauls—averaging 4 miles. On this basis the use of six tractors would eliminate about 60 teams and reduce the cost of hauling by about $20,000 a year. The city's other 40
teams would have to be kept in service for making the collections from house to house.

Considering Municipal Plant.
Director Talbert says that until the city is able to decide whether a municipal plant shall be built and operated for the reduction of garbage or whether disposal is to be continued
as at present by a private concern,
the adoption of automobiles even for long hauls cannot be considered. The number and situation of the receiving stations will govern the cost of hauling. These factors must in turn depend, Talbert says, on whether the plant is near the city or remote and whether the garbage is to be transported by rail or water.

St. Louis is now paying $2.40 a ton for collecting garbage and 27 cents a ton for reducing it. The cost of collection is higher in St. Louis than in any other large city of the United States, Talbert says. He favors the establishment of a municipal plant within the city limits, and urges that preparations
be made now to build it by setting aside
the money this year and next.
The cost of a plant of sufficient capacity for St. Louis would be $400,000, Talbert says. If built it should not be with the idea of constituting it a profitable investment, according to Talbert.
The best that the city could hope, in his opinion, would be a self-supporting plant. Any net earnings ought to be expended, he says, in abating odors and embellishing the exterior of the plant so as to minimize its objectionable features.

Would Be Large Saving.
With a municipal plant and transfer
stations at convenient points in the city, Director Talbert asserts, a very large saving could be effected by adopting auto transport and by displacing two-horse wagons with one-horse vehicles.
This would reduce the investment in livestock, the cost of wagons and the charges for the keep of animals and maintenance of vehicles. The feeding and shoeing of 65 mules and horses is alone about $7800 a year.

Under the present system two-horse wagons of heavy build are necessary
because of their equipment with dumping apparatus and also to enable them to withstand the hard usage to which they are subjected on the levee. Five thousand dollars could be saved every two years in the purchase of lighter wagons. Two years is the average "life"
of the wagons now in service.

LAW EMPLOYES
CARRIED ON CITY
ROLLS AS FOREMEN

Clerks and Chauffeurs Are Classed as Laborers, Rogers Says.

The Efficiency Board has prepared blankets to be filled out by all city employees to inform the board exactly of the duties performed by each employee
with a view to correcting a situation existing in nearly all departments, under which men are carried on the payroll under particular titles yet do work
of a different nature.

Each employee will be expected to set out the history of his service with the city, the nature of his work, the amount of time he devotes to each of several duties if he has more than one, the title
under which he is carried on the payroll, the title of the job he actually is filling, and his opinion of what his title
should be.

The Efficiency Board recently obtained from heads of departments a list of all persons in their departments and the title of each. The reports received from the men will be checked against these.

Chairman Rogers of the board said
today that many departments had loaned men to other departments, and that men doing legal work were carried on the payroll as laborers, chauffeurs as laborers, and that there was no assurance from the title a man had as to the nature of the work he was doing.

Chairman Rogers said he did not charge this condition to be the result of graft, but that he thought it grew out of a desire of department heads to get employees for specific duties without going to the Board of Aldermen, or the old Municipal Assembly, which in many cases refused to create new jobs unless its members could name the men to fill them.

PURCHASING BUREAU AND BIG GERMAN CITIES IN CONFLICT

Municipalities Claim Right to Buy Own Food Without Asking for Permission.

THE HAGUE, July 7.—Information reaches The Hague that for several weeks there has been continuous friction between the authorities of various large German cities and the Central Purchasing Bureau. The municipalities claim the right to buy their own food
and household articles without asking permission of the Central Bureau.

There was an outburst last week in the Hanover City Council, several members of which accused the Central Bureau of boycotting the city, which was unable to procure butter, sausage and hams, notwithstanding the fact that some places in the vicinity were sufficiently supplied.

Cologne, Dresden, Chemnitz and other cities already are purchasing supplies
independently, having representatives in Holland for that purpose.

GARBAGE DRIVERS' VICTORY STIRS THE RIVER ROUSTABOUT

Romantic Steamboat Worker Completely Modern in His Demand for More Pay.

Announcement of the victorious end of the strike of dead animal and garbage teamsters has resulted in unrest among negro roustabouts and a near-panic in the movement of river freight. The news that the city garbage men had decided to return to work, soon reached the crews, where one "Frog Eye" communicated it to one "String Bean," who in turn spread it, and when the steamer Belle of Calhoun, which plies between St. Louis and landings in Calhoun County, Ill., was about to leave port Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, she blew in vain for a crew. As the steamer backed into the stream the negroes who were to have composed her crew lolled in the shade of the Eads Bridge, insistently demanding a wage of $30 a month and, in the terms or organized labor, better working conditions.

These demands center attention upon a romantic institution—the negro roustabout. In time past, to the droning of croony, weird melodies, he half worked, half chanted his way into the hearts of the traveler and tourist, but that was before the advent of the railroad, and only minstrelsy of the Dockstader-Primrose-Field variety survives to bring up memories of that better and happier day of the roustabout.

White Men Employed. It was necessary to employ crews of white men for the steamers Dubuque and Peoria when they departed yesterday, while the greatest trouble was experienced in obtaining a crew of negroes for the Cape Girardeau. Capt. H. W. Leyhe said he was compelled to ship some of these men at the rate of $100 a month and board. But Capt. Leyhe does not anticipate a new era of industrialism with these fancy demands, and he doesn't term it a spirit of unrest.

"It is just too warm for these negroes to work," he said. "When we went so far as to meet their demands, some were rather disappointed that we had done so. This is the potato season, too, and potatoes are heavy. Hence their reluctance to ship."

Capt. Leyhe and other river men, including representatives of the Eagle Packet Co. and Lee Line, said the river trade was gradually getting back to something of its old form, with this year by far the most prosperous in the past decade. This growing business, Capt. Leyhe said, has sent the negro roustabout a-chime. And what he said was characteristic contrariness, the roustabout, he said, sought to embarrass the packet men.

None of the river men look upon the demands of the roustabouts as a matter seriously to affect river shipping conditions for long, however, and they are expected to surrender to the fascination of the calling sooner than hold out for an uncertain period for economical reasons.

Become Garbage Drivers. Capt. Leyhe said that many of the more industrious former roustabouts were driving garbage and other teams, as he had been frequently hailed by negroes who knew him on the river. And this led to an interview with a tall, slim, very black fellow on the levee whom the others addressed as "String Bean." It was he who gave the information that "Frog Eye," a garbage teamster, had proclaimed the successful termination of the garbage strike and urged a similar movement on the part of the roustabouts.

Consequently demands were made on the packet companies by little groups of the men for more money. In former years crews were readily obtained at wage scales of from $25 to $50 a month, and within the past year they have been shipped at $75 a month. It was thought this latter figure would be satisfactory for some time and the demand for a still higher scale is looked upon as unreasonable by packet companies.

Life of the Roustabout. The life of the roustabout from the close of the Civil War has been clothed more or less in sympathetic romance. Half the entertainment of the old, slow, easy-going but altogether pleasant travel by water was furnished by him in antics on the levees and on the docks.

The roustabout has no designated working hours, but merely ships for the trip, and that means that he must make every stop of the boat in the course of the trip. Between landings he sleeps, but not too deeply, for it is necessary for the captain of the watch, a more trustworthy roustabout, to employ the "wink-awake," a club not unlike a policeman's night stick, to hot-foot the sleepy ones into wakefulness at landings.

After putting on and taking off freight, the crew "flops" again on the dock for the next stop, by which time they are fast asleep as before. Waking them is the greatest problem encountered in making the schedule. Few roustabouts know a better existence. The roustabout knows no better master than the mate with the choicest vocabulary of expletives, and no better place to live and sleep than a place in the sun, or, in winter, than a snug place near the boilers.

But his demands today for recognition as a body in the matter of wages rather than for the time from the realm of romance this quaint personality, much sung and altogether tenderly regarded.
